FATAL FIRE CLAIMS LITTLE TEN YEAR OLD RUSSELL MORRISON

FIVE OTHER LADS HAD VERY MAR.
BRONZE LUCK AS THE CONTENTS OF JAMES MORRISON'S HOUSE WERE ENTIRELY DESTROYED EARLY TUESDAY MORNING. FOUR OF THEM WERE SLEEPING IN HAY LOFT.

A fire which entirely consumed the barn and stables of Mr. Jas. Morrison, early Tuesday morning, was also accompanied by the distressing fatality of one of the young boys of the farm. Mr. Morrison was burned to death in the building. Five other lads who were in the farmyard at the time of the fire escaped, while Mr. Morrison is badly burned about the face and head as a result of his heroic efforts to save his son.

Earl Hickey, aged 16, Albert Lapierre, aged 16, George Morrison, aged 13, Russell Morrison, aged 16, Jesse Morrison, aged 16, all boys, were at work on the farm, and the boys took advantage of their position to put out the flames.

About three o'clock Tuesday morning Mr. Morrison was aroused by the commotion of the horses, principally, and the cries of assistance from the boys. The fire had broken out, and he set out to see what was happening. His first thought was for his son's safety, and he called to the boys to get their horses and go into the barn and enquire if there were any other injured.

Mr. Morrison secured an axe and rushed into the barn, in order to save his boys. He started to pull the firemen out of the barn, and as he was doing so, he fell to the ground, but he was too weak to get up. He was observed by the boys, who ran to get help. Mr. Morrison then fell to the ground and was left there for a few minutes. He was later taken to the hospital, where he was treated for his burns.

The barn was completely destroyed, but the hay and the horses were saved. The fire was caused by a spark from a kerosene lamp. The firemen who came to the scene found the barn already in flames, and they worked hard to put it out. The fire was put out within an hour, and the barn was saved.

Mr. Morrison was taken to the hospital, where he was treated for his burns. The boys who were in the barn were also taken to the hospital, where they were treated for their burns. The boys were discharged within a few days, and they were taken home to recover.

Mr. Morrison, who is in the wood business, had been working on the sawmill for several days, and had been using all his means of making a livelihood. The fire, in addition to causing a lot of damage to the sawmill, also caused a lot of difficulty to the business men and employees of the company. The response has been spontaneous, and a fund of almost $500 has been raised, which will be presented to Mr. Morrison. The fire was caused by defective wiring, and it is believed that the wiring was not up to standard. The firemen who came to the scene found the sawmill already in flames, and they worked hard to put it out. The fire was put out within an hour, and the sawmill was saved.
